

Thank you, Evy.

While the words may be simple, the help you provided isn't.

Stuck "in-between", not being able to see up from down or right-for-me to horribly-wrong, you came in to my life. Your insight was both loving and humble, but most of all it was profoundly inspiring.

My thanks to you is that of a child who finally believes in what tomorrow has in store for them, or rather, in what "I" have in store for tomorrow.

When we met at Florida earlier this year I was practically jumping off a cliff in to a sea of unknowns. Your guidance and clear insight have given me wings. Almost a year later and I see my path, one you paved so clearly and warmly. You knew then what I am starting to see now, and I see it all because of you and the blessing of the light you share.

Thank you, Evy.

"Thank you", the words are simple; meeting you, profound.
